Exhibitor Safety Responsibility Statement

1. Comply with laws, regulations, and social ethics, and refrain from disrupting public order or affecting social stability.

2. Follow safety management regulations. Do not display offensive slogans, banners, or other items, and do not litter.

3. Actively cooperate with security checks and enter/exit the exhibition area with valid credentials.

4. Adhere to public security, fire safety, and other management systems. Undergo security inspections and refrain from carrying explosive, flammable, radioactive, toxic, corrosive, or other hazardous materials, or illegally possessing firearms, ammunition, or controlled tools.

5. Assign staff to safeguard exhibits and personal belongings to prevent theft or loss.

6. Develop contingency plans in advance to address emergencies or unexpected incidents.

7. When distributing promotional materials or taking photos, do not block public or evacuation pathways.

8. Exhibitors have to ensure that audio-visual equipment placement does not extend beyond the designated booth or obstruct evacuation routes. Noise from equipment use or testing must not exceed 70 decibels (dB) and must not disturb other exhibitors or visitors. The organizer reserves the right to halt or prohibit the use of any audio or mechanical equipment.

9. Resolutely oppose and reject obscene, vulgar, or violent performances. Staff, exhibitors, and performers must dress appropriately for a professional setting (e.g., business attire length). Underwear or bikini-style clothing is prohibited.

10. All foreign performers must obtain a Foreigner's Work Permit and an Employment Residence Permit issued by the Shenzhen Public Security Bureau. Hiring unauthorized foreign personnel is strictly prohibited.

11. Smoking is prohibited in the exhibition area.

12. Exhibitors violating safety regulations will receive immediate criticism and education from staff. Those disrupting public order or endangering public safety will be forcibly removed by security. Legal authorities will pursue legal actions against unlawful behavior.
